What a Former San Franciscan Has Accomplished.

The report of Consul Griffin, stationed at Sydney, contains some important the Pacific islands. A wealthy woman, whose father was an American, is very ALL THE JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME Anderson, F anxious that the United States should secure a footbold in this region.

Mrs. Emma E. Forsythe, a daughter of Jonas M. Coe, formerly Consul at dred natives, owns several steamers and is building others and conducts a the island of New Britain. Mrs. Forsythe is now thirty-eight years of age. She received her education at Sydney and San Francisco.

Besides being highly accomplished she is a lady of very prepossessing appearance and of remarkable energy and intelligence. At the time of her marriage she was acknowledged to be the most graceful and beautiful woman in the island. She made such an impression upon Lord Pembroke that he sketched her portrait at length in the character of Coe in his work entitled guardian, present in person. South Sea Bubbles

Although married to an Englishman, Mrs. Forsyth never renounced her nationality. After the death of her husband, which occurred in the year 1872, she took up her residence with her uncle, E. H. Coe, in San Francisco, and at a later period joined her father's family at Apia, Samoan Islands. She rendered assistance to her father in keeping the books of the consulate.

She is quoted as an authority on native language and dialects, and during Consul Griffin's term of office as Consul at Samoa she, on various occasions, acted as his amanuensis and interpreter, and translated nearly all his correspondence with the Samoan Government. She has always taken great interest in the trade and commerce of the South Sea Islands, and is, perhaps, better posted on the subject than any other citizen of the United States residing south of the

In 1879 she removed to the island of New Britain, and, having purchased from the natives several large tracts of land there, she formed a partnership with Thomas Farrell, and in the same year she established one of the most extensive business enterprises in the South Sea Islands, under the name of Thomas Farrell & Co., planters and trading

Red Tape.

A paymaster in the United States navy has furnished the New York Herald with the following account of the red tape that must be unwound in order to buy an article needed for use on board a mano'-war: "Supposing that a paper of tacks is wanted on board a United States ship on a foreign station, the following is the routine actually required under General Order No. 48: Four requisitions are made out, which are signed as follows-Officer making the requisition, 4 times; Captain, S; paymaster, S, and Admiral, 4. Bids are sent out to five merchants, which are signed by pay officer 5 times; merchants bidding, 5 acceptance of bid; paymaster, 1. Bills are then made out in quintuplicate and are signed by the Captain 5 times; paymaster, 10; senior officer of the Board of Inspection, 5, and person receiving the money 5. A report is attached by the senior officer of the Board of Survey, in duplicate, 2 signatures, and the officer who has made the requisition signs a receipt on the bill 5 times, when it is complete, with 62 signatures. This is called simplification of methods, and protecting the Government by a so-called system of checks of balances.

Cracking a Railway Nut.

The Executive committee of the transcontinental association continued in session at Chicago on July 26th without reaching a settlement of the dispute between the Canadian and Southern Pacific companies about differentials. It is reported that the Canadian Pacific has agreed to compromise its claims on the California business by accepting differentials of about half the amount which it has been receiving. The opinion is expressed by members of the association that the Southern Pacific can be brought to accept these terms, and that the association will remain intact.

The proposition of the Canadian Pacific, which involves the surrender of some of their differentials and a modification of others, was discussed almost the entire afternoon by the transcontimental association, and great pressure was brought to bear on the Southern Pacific to induce it to agree to the arrangement. The latter was obstinate but the opinion prevails that it will eventually yield.

From Symes & Co., Pharmacentical Chemista, Medical Hall, Simia, January 5, 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 23, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London, Dear Sir.—We embrace this opportunity of congrainfalting you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chiorodyne, has carnen for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy for general utility, we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other branus, we are sorry to say, are now relegated to the native bazzars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanessent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhoza and Dyseniery, Spasms Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vemiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occused under our personal observation during mahy years. In Choleraic Diarrhoza, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed ifs surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm Conviction that it is decidely the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other (than Collis Browne's is a peliberate Breach of parties and Patters of The Chemist To Prieschiers and Patters Alike.
